MANAGEMENT DISCUSSIONS & ANALYSIS REPORT

• Agricultural policy

Countries world over provide support for their farmers using trade barriers and subsidy because, for example:

- Domestic agriculture, even if it is inefficient by world standards, can be an insurance policy in case it becomes difficult (as it does, for example, in wartime) to buy agricultural produce from abroad;
- Farmers groups have proved adept at lobbying;
- Politicians have sought to slow the depopulation of rural areas;
- Agricultural prices can be volatile, as a result of unpredictable weather, among other things; and
- Financial support can provide a safety net in unexpectedly severe market conditions.

Broadly speaking, governments have tried two methods of subsidizing agriculture. The first, used in the United States during the 1930s and in the UK before it joined the European Union, is to top up farmers' incomes if they fall below a level deemed acceptable. Farmers may be required to set aside some of their land in return for this support. The second is to guarantee a minimum level of farm prices by buying up surplus supply and storing or destroying it if prices would otherwise fall below the guaranteed levels. This was the approach adopted by the EU when it set up its Common Agricultural Policy. To keep down the direct cost of this subsidy the EU used trade barriers, including import levies, to minimize competition to EU farmers from produce available more cheaply on world agriculture markets. Recent American farm-support policy has combined income top-ups and some guaranteed prices.

As most governments have become more committed to international trade, such agricultural policies have come under increasing attack, although the free trade rhetoric has often run far ahead of genuine reform. In 2003, rich countries together spent over $300 billion a year supporting their farmers, more than six times what they spent on foreign AID. Finding a way to end agricultural support had become by far the biggest remaining challenge for those trying to negotiate global free trade.

• Agriculture

Farming around the world continues to become more productive while generally accounting for a smaller share of employment and national income, although in some poor countries it remains the sector on which the country and its people depend. Farming, forestry and fishing in 1913 accounted for 28% of employment in the United States, 41% in France and 60% in Japan, but only 12% in the UK. Now the proportion of the workforce employed in such activities has dropped below 6% in these and most other industrialized countries.

The total value of international trade in agriculture has risen steadily. But the global agriculture market remains severely distorted by trade barriers and government subsidy, such as the European Union's Common agricultural policy.

Plant Disease Management by Organic Way by Protecting Environment

Today in Agriculture farms use millions of tons deadly poisonous toxic agrochemicals to control pest, fungal and bacterial disease. It pollutes our fruits, vegetables, food, milk, air, water, soil etc. Environment is a precious god gift to human beings. It is priceless gift but being free, we are damaging it for our selfish motive.

In modern agriculture farmer spends more than 25 % of its input budget for pest control management. It is a huge amount and leads to loss making farming (Unsustainable Farming).

Now to combat this problem, scientist are working to get better alternative, like immunity development, sturdy verity development, strong plant defense mechanism, plant stress management, oxidative stress, temperature stress, salinity and draught issues management.

Ocean agro is also actively working in this field. Our company is trying to solve the serious problem of pesticides pollution. We are working to develop plant immunity, plant strong defense mechanism and sturdy plant growth to fight against pest, fungal, bacterial and viral infection.

There are many natural ways to protect against deceases.

1. By incorporating high silica in plant which can help to protect plant against herbivore.
2. By hardening of cell walls with calcium, prevent pathogen from entering the cell wall.
3. More Waxy epidermal cuticle for water loss and micro bacterial and viral infection by natural fatty alcohol.
4. Systemic acquired resistance which induce by specially developed phenolic complex compound.
5. By spraying some volatile compound repeals the aphids and other pest.
6. Organically coupled Calcium Phosphate compound produce strong spike, hair and rough surface on the plant surface and protect from Herbivore

Ocean Agro has developed signaling compound which induce self-acquired resistance.

Company has also developed innovative compound called Seal cell to grow more spike on the surface to protect plant.

Scientist are now focusing on developing stabilized silica compound which is most available to plant. This type of silica produce strong skeleton in the plant to defend against pest, fungal and viral infection. Now a day's world over scientist have realized the importance of silica compound in plant defense.

Ocean agro has developed highly stabilized Silica liquid for healthy plant growth which will helps to reduce toxic chemical usage for plant protection. It is natural way to protect environment from toxic agro chemicals.

Our Shareholders will appreciate, our noble holly efforts to protect our precious environment.

a. Industrial Structure and Developments

India is largest producer of various agriculture commodities in the world. After America, India is holding highest irrigated agriculture land in the world, India is having 70% of population dependant on agriculture which contributes 16% in GDP as agriculture production. Per acre yield of agriculture production for all crops in India is hardly 30-35% of average yield obtained by American farmers. The predominance of contribution of the Agriculture sector to the overall economy has drastically reduced since the other sectors of economy have considerably progressed.

Company has been constantly innovating through its persistent efforts in the field of Research & Development. As a result of these R & D efforts, company has been able to regularly introduce new products. As on date, two products have already been developed on pilot scale along with test marketing. In coming two years these products will be gradually introduced in the market and will increase company's turnover and profitability considerably.

Anew range of natural nontoxic compounds based on silicone Chemistry is being developed and the results on pilot scale experiments look extremely promising. Some of the developed products have already been introduced with stellar market response. We are looking to have the whole range in the market in three to four years from now.

b. Opportunities and Threats.

To revolutionize the farming technique by educating farmers to adopt Hi-Tech Natural Farming so as to make the Indian Farmer a world class prosperous entity, is possible by modern gadgets like cloud computing and smart phones. It is economically viable now by motivating target farmers to practice modern technology to get higher yield with less cost.

In order to keep up with the global competitors that have entered the Indian agricultural market and the wide spread network of Dealers and farmers, the Company is implementing an in-house logistics system that will allow real-time tracking extention work for demand generation .

c. Segment - Wise or Product – Wise performance.

In organic input market, company's soil amendment products are in high demand by progressive farmers. Bio Fertilizers are also well received. Company's Function specific products have created opportunity for new horticulture market.

d. Internal Control System and their adequacy.

The company has adequate internal control systems and procedure with regard to purchase, stores and raw materials including components, plant and machinery, other assets and for sale of goods.

The company has an adequate internal audit system commensurate with size and nature of its business. The company has engaged a firm of Chartered Accountants for its internal audit function. Reports of Internal Auditors are reviewed in the meetings of the Audit Committee of the Board.

We conducted our audit in accordance with the standards on auditing specified under section 143(10) of the act. Those Standards require that we comply with ethical requirements and plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free from material misstatement. An audit involves performing procedures to obtain audit evidence about the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. The procedures selected depend on the auditor's judgment, including the assessment of the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error. In making those risk assessments, the auditor considers internal financial control relevant to the Company's preparation of the financial statements that give a true and fair view in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the entity's internal control. An audit also includes evaluating the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of the accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall presentation of the financial statements. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinion on the standalone financial statements.
